MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant Ozone Networks, Inc. d/b/a OpenSea (“OpenSea”) has filed a Motion to Dismiss the Amended Complaint that is potentially dispositive of the entire case and that may be readily decided without additional discovery. (See Defendant Ozone Networks, Inc.’s Motion to Dismiss the Amended Complaint (“OpenSea MTD”), ECF No. 71.) For the reasons set forth below and in OpenSea’s pending motion, a “preliminary peek” at the merits of OpenSea’s motion demonstrates that Plaintiff will be unable to state a claim for relief against OpenSea because (1) OpenSea had no duty to Plaintiff because it was not in a special relationship with the Plaintiff; (2) even if it did, OpenSea’s actions did not constitute breach and did not cause Plaintiff’s alleged harm; (3) the exculpatory provision in OpenSea’s Terms of Service bars Plaintiff’s claims; and (4) the economic loss doctrine also bars Plaintiff’s claims.<sup>1</sup>

Accordingly, a stay of discovery until such time as the Court resolves OpenSea’s motion is warranted. See Urb. Outfitters, Inc. v. Dermody Operating Co., No. 3:21-cv-00109-MMD-CLB, 2021 WL 3605053 (D. Nev. Aug. 13, 2021).

II. BACKGROUND

OpenSea operates an online “web3” platform dedicated to non-fungible tokens (“NFTs”), where users can find NFTs that interest them and connect with each other to purchase and sell NFTs in direct peer-to-peer transactions. Plaintiff Armijo alleges that three NFTs he first purchased using OpenSea were later stolen by a third-party scammer operating not on OpenSea, but on a completely different, unaffiliated online platform called “Discord.” (First Am. Compl. (“FAC”) ¶¶ 80-81, 86, ECF No. 62.) OpenSea’s prompt action (within four hours) thwarted the attacker from ever reselling two of the three stolen NFTs using OpenSea. (Id. ¶¶ 94-96.) Due to the decentralized nature of blockchain technology, disabling the ability to purchase or sell NFTs using OpenSea does not prevent the NFTs from being purchased or traded on other NFT

<sup>1</sup> OpenSea also joins Defendant Yuga Labs, Inc.’s Motion to Stay Discovery Deadlines Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(f) and LR 26-1 and To Vacate Case Management and Scheduling Orders (ECF No. 78), which further articulates why Plaintiff’s claims will fail.

1 marketplaces, and indeed the two NFTs never resold using OpenSea “were later listed and resold
2 on LooksRare,” a different NFT marketplace. (Id.)

3 OpenSea’s Terms of Service disclose “the risk that third parties may obtain unauthorized
4 access to information stored within your wallet” and contain express limitations of liability,
5 including that OpenSea “WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE OR LIABLE TO YOU FOR . . . ANY
6 LOSSES, DAMAGES OR CLAIMS ARISING FROM . . . ANY UNAUTHORIZED THIRD
7 PARTY ACTIVITIES, INCLUDING WITHOUT LIMITATION . . . PHISHING,” the type of 8 attack to which Plaintiff fell victim, and provide that the user agrees that “IN NO EVENT WILL 9 OPENSEA BE LIABLE TO YOU OR ANY THIRD PARTY FOR ANY . . . DAMAGES . . .
10 WHETHER CAUSED BY,” inter alia, “TORT (INCLUDING NEGLIGENCE).” (Declaration
11 of Ian L. Meader (“Meader Decl.”) Ex. A at 11-12, ECF No. 72.) Plaintiff agreed to the Terms
12 of Service on multiple occasions, including when he purchased NFTs using OpenSea and used
13 the mobile app for the first time. (Meader Decl. ¶¶ 5-8; see FAC ¶¶ 32, 36, ECF No. 62.)

14 Plaintiff asserts that OpenSea is nevertheless liable for the theft of his NFTs by a third
15 party on the Discord platform because it breached a purported duty to prevent the third-party
16 scammer from relisting the already-stolen NFTs for sale using OpenSea, and brings claims for 17 (1) negligence; (2) negligent supervision and training; and (3) negligent hiring. (FAC ¶¶ 189-18 205, 216-235.) Plaintiff alleges that he lost the “significant monetary value” of the NFTs and 19 other purely economic harms. (See id. ¶¶ 39-42, 47, 52, 63, 65, 159-160, 180, 203, 224.) The 20 operative First Amended Complaint is Plaintiff’s second effort, filed after OpenSea moved to 21 dismiss the original Complaint. (See Compl., ECF No. 1 & Defendant Ozone Networks, Inc.’s 22 Motion to Dismiss Compl., ECF No. 56.)

23 OpenSea has again moved to dismiss Plaintiff’s three substantially identical claims. (See 24 OpenSea MTD, ECF No. 71.) Pursuant to LR 26-6, counsel for OpenSea met and conferred with 25 Plaintiff’s counsel regarding the instant motion prior to seeking relief. (See Declaration of 26 Jonathan H. Blavin ¶¶ 5-6.)

1 III. LEGAL STANDARD

2 Fed. R. Civ. P. 1 requires the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to be “construed,
3 administered, and employed . . . to secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of
4 every action and proceeding.” “With Rule 1 as its prime directive, the court must decide whether
5 it is more just to speed the parties along in discovery while a dispositive motion is pending or to 6 delay discovery to accomplish the inexpensive determination of the case.” Urb. Outfitters, 2021
7 WL 3605053, at *3. “[M]otions to stay discovery pending resolution of a dispositive motion
8 may be granted when: (1) the pending motion is potentially dispositive; (2) the potentially 9 dispositive motion can be decided without additional discovery; and (3) the Court has taken a 10 ‘preliminary peek’ at the merits of the potentially dispositive motion to evaluate the likelihood of 11 dismissal.” Godwin v. Senior Garden Apartments No. 2:17-CV-02178-MMD-DJA, 2021 WL
12 564901, at *1 (D. Nev. Jan. 26, 2021) (citing Kor Media Grp., LLC v. Green, 294 F.R.D. 579, 13 581 (D. Nev. 2013)); see also Tradebay, LLC v. eBay, Inc., 278 F.R.D. 597, 603 (D. Nev. 2011) 14 (noting that the “‘preliminary peek’ at the merits of the underlying motion is not intended to 15 prejudge its outcome” given that “[t]he district judge will decide the dispositive motion and may 16 have a different view of the merits”).

17 IV. ARGUMENT

18 All three factors that the Court considers to determine if a stay of discovery is warranted
19 strongly favor a stay pending the Court’s ruling on OpenSea’s motion to dismiss.

20 Two of the three factors cannot be disputed: OpenSea’s motion to dismiss each of 21 Plaintiff’s substantially duplicative claims would unquestionably be dispositive of the entire case
22 if granted, and the motion undoubtedly may be resolved without any additional discovery given
23 that it is based entirely on Plaintiff’s allegations and the contents of OpenSea’s Terms of 24 Service—which are subject to judicial notice, and even if they were not, are not themselves
25 necessary to grant OpenSea’s motion, which is based on several independent grounds. (See
26 generally OpenSea MTD, ECF No. 71.)

27 The third factor likewise decisively favors a stay of discovery: the Court’s “preliminary
28 peek” at OpenSea’s motions to dismiss will confirm that this is a case where “delaying discovery

would prevent economic waste, since conducting discovery before the ruling on the motions to dismiss would be futile.” Urb. Outfitters, 2021 WL 3605053, at *4 (granting stay where given that plaintiff likely failed to state a claim for relief). As set forth in greater detail in OpenSea’s Motion to Dismiss, this is true for the following reasons:

First, OpenSea owed no duty to Plaintiff to prevent a third-party scammer from stealing his NFTs via a phishing attack on a different (and unaffiliated) online platform named “Discord” and relisting the stolen NFTs for sale using OpenSea because the OpenSea platform was not in a “special relationship” with him. (OpenSea MTD at 7-11; see, e.g., Beckman v. Match.com, LLC, 743 F. App’x 142, 142 (9th Cir. 2018) (Mem. Disp.) (no duty under Nevada law for website to protect subscribers from harm caused by third parties where plaintiff failed to allege facts sufficient to show a “special relationship”).)

Plaintiff fails to allege facts establishing that a “special relationship” existed, and courts have repeatedly held that websites and other similar online platforms do not have such a relationship with their users under these circumstances, where a requisite degree of control over the user (such that the user is unable to protect himself from the foreseeable harm by the third-party) does not exist. Beckman, 743 F. App’x 142 (citing Scialabba v. Brandise Constr. Co., 921 P.2d 928, 930 (Nev. 1996) (existence of duty “turns on whether [the defendant] exercised control over the premises”)); Dyroff v. Ultimate Software Grp., Inc., 934 F.3d 1093, 1100-01 (9th Cir. 2019) (“No website could function if a duty of care was created when a website facilitates communication, in a content-neutral fashion, of its users’ content. . . . We decline to create such a relationship.”). Plaintiff’s attempt to conjure the existence of a special relationship through the bald allegation that that OpenSea possesses market dominance likewise fails. (See OpenSea MTD at 11-13, ECF No. 71.) Because OpenSea owed Plaintiff no duty as a matter of law, his negligence claim fails.

Second, even if OpenSea did owe Plaintiff a duty, the allegations of Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint demonstrate that OpenSea did not breach such duty, and that OpenSea is not the proximate cause of Plaintiff’s damages. (See OpenSea MTD at 13-14, ECF No. 71.) Plaintiff admits that: (i) the phishing attempt to which he fell victim occurred on a third-party platform, not OpenSea (FAC ¶¶ 80-81, ECF No. 62); (ii) OpenSea warned users of the risks of third-party misconduct (see id. ¶ 8); and (iii) OpenSea acted promptly to disable the NFTs on its platform once notified, preventing the resale of two of Plaintiff’s three stolen NFTs (id. ¶ 96; 4).

Plaintiff further admits that OpenSea is powerless to reverse or undo a transaction once it has been “permanent[ly] and irreversibl[y]” recorded on the blockchain; and that OpenSea had no ability to “prevent the stolen NFTs from being purchased or traded on any other NFT marketplaces” other than OpenSea. (FAC ¶¶ 4, 95.) Thus, regardless of whether OpenSea had prevented the resale of all of Plaintiff’s NFTs on its site, Plaintiff would have suffered the identical injury, and OpenSea was not the proximate cause of such harm. (See OpenSea MTD at 14-16, ECF No. 71.)

Plaintiff’s substantially identical claims for negligent hiring, training, and supervision also fail for similar reasons. (Id. at 16-19.) As with his negligence claim, Plaintiff does not allege that OpenSea—or more specifically in this instance, OpenSea’s employees—caused him harm. Because such a showing is required to plead claims for negligent hiring, training, and/or supervision, and because Plaintiff cannot plausibly plead that OpenSea employees caused him harm—to the contrary, he pleads that a third-party unaffiliated with OpenSea caused him permanent and irreversible harm—these claims fail as a matter of law. Rockwell v. Sun Harbor Budget Suites, 925 P.2d 1175, 1181 (Nev. 1996) (the person causing harm “must actually be an employee” to establish liability for negligent hiring, training, or supervision); Bock-Kasminoff v. Walmart, Inc., No. 2:20-CV-00949-JAD-EJY, 2022 WL 891448, at *3 (D. Nev. Mar. 24, 2022) (“Without evidence that Walmart was responsible for the liquid on the floor, [Plaintiff] can’t” show that her “injury was caused by an employee”).

Third, all of Plaintiff’s claims are barred by OpenSea’s Terms of Service, which Plaintiff voluntarily accepted multiple times and which contains an unambiguous exculpatory clause that expressly applies to negligence actions like this one. (See OpenSea MTD at 19-22, ECF No. 71; Meader Decl. ¶¶ 5-8 & Ex. A at 12 (“IN NO EVENT WILL OPENSEA BE LIABLE TO YOU OR ANY THIRD PARTY FOR ANY . . . NEGLIGENCE”), ECF No. 72; My Daily Choice, Inc. v. Butler, No. 2:20-CV-02178-JAD-NJK, 2021 WL 3475547, at *6 (D. Nev. Aug. 6, 2021)

(enforcing terms presented, like those here, “as a clear hyperlink near an ‘I understand and agree to these policies and procedures’ button”).)

No additional discovery is required to determine the contents of the Terms of Service because the Terms are properly subject to judicial notice and incorporated by reference by the First Amended Complaint. (See Defendant Ozone Networks, Inc.’s Request for Judicial Notice In Support of Motion to Dismiss Amended Complaint, ECF No. 73 (explaining that the Terms to which Plaintiff agreed appear on a publicly accessible website and are capable of accurate and ready determination by resort to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned).)

Because the exculpatory provision “unambiguously identifies the parties’ intent” to exculpate OpenSea for liability for harm caused by third-party conduct, including “phishing,” and for any liability allegedly caused by negligence, and all three negligence claims in this action involve such activity, the claims are barred by the Terms of Service. Kaufman v. Sweat It Out, Inc., No. A-18-778889-C, 2020 WL 4251083, at *3 (Nev. Dist. Ct. June 17, 2020) (“The exculpatory clause unambiguously identifies the parties’ intent; and therefore, the Court has no authority to alter the terms of the Agreement.”); Cruz v. Sun Buggy Fun Rentals, Inc., No. 11A652884, 2012 WL 7831781, ¶¶ 6, 9 (Nev. Dist. Ct. Nov. 19, 2012) (exculpatory provision enforceable when customers “simply can walk away”).

Fourth and finally, all of Plaintiff’s claims are also barred by Nevada’s economic loss doctrine, which bars recovery for economic losses “absent personal injury or damage to property other than the defective entity itself.” Calloway v. City of Reno, 993 P.2d 1259, 1267 (Nev. 2000), overruled on other grounds by Olson v. Richard, 89 P.3d 31, 33 (Nev. 2004); Blanck v. Hager, 360 F. Supp. 2d 1137, 1157-59 (D. Nev. 2005) (dismissing negligent hiring, training, and supervision claim). “The term ‘economic loss’ refers to damages that are solely monetary, as opposed to damages involving physical harm to person or property.” Giles v. Gen. Motors Acceptance Corp., 494 F.3d 865, 879 (9th Cir. 2007); Pelletier v. Rodriguez, No. 3:17-CV-00642-MMD-EJY, 2021 WL 3008594, at *9 (D. Nev. July 15, 2021) (“Plaintiff does allege harm to his property, but the harm alleged is purely economic: ‘damages to crop, loss of cattle business opportunities, loss of profits from sale of Alfalfa/Orchard grass, and delays of closing.’”). Here, the harm Plaintiff alleges is solely economic in nature—he does not allege any physical harm to person or property as is required to survive dismissal under the economic loss rule. (See OpenSea MTD at 23-25, ECF No. 71).

For each of the aforementioned reasons, OpenSea is likely to succeed in dismissing Plaintiff’s Amended Complaint, and a stay of discovery pending the Court’s resolution of OpenSea’s motion to dismiss is therefore warranted. See Godwin, 2021 WL 564901, at *2 (granting stay of discovery when “the Court is not convinced that Plaintiff will survive dismissal” while acknowledging that this conclusion may differ from that of the assigned district judge); 5035 Vill. Tr. v. Durazo, No. 2:15-CV-00747-GMN-NJK, 2016 WL 6246304, at *3 (D. Nev. Oct. 24, 2016) (granting discovery stay where the pending motion “present[ed] a dispositive legal question that would resolve Plaintiff’s claims without the need for discovery”); Segal v. Lefebvre, No. 2:13-CV-01511-JCM, NJK, 2013 WL 12130553, at *2 (D. Nev. Nov. 14, 2013) (“[I]t is more just to delay discovery to accomplish the inexpensive determination of the case than to speed the parties along in discovery while the dispositive motions are pending.”); Urb. Outfitters, 2021 WL 3605053, at *4-5 (noting that “the Court’s duty is to ensure an inexpensive determination of this action” and granting motion to stay even while “recogniz[ing] the District Court may disagree and find that dismissal is not proper”).

V. CONCLUSION

The Court should stay discovery or otherwise extend the deadlines triggered by Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(f) and LR 26-1 until such time as the pending motions to dismiss have been decided.

DATED this 3rd day of August, 2022.
